Student Life

The Bates Outing Club

Clam Bake

The Bates Outing Club provides loads of fun for Bates students. Many freshmen partake of their Annual Entering Students Outdoor Program (AESOP) before they begin their Bates career. The trips range from hiking to canoeing and take advantage of the beautiful nearby rivers and mountains. The Outing Club also runs a number of events throughout the year including Peak's Day and Winter Carnival.

This year the Bates Outing Club did it up right with their annual Clam Bake at Popham Beach. The weather was perfect and plenty of Batesies came out to enjoy the day. There were frisbees being tossed, people kayaking for the first time, and others who took a snooze on the sand. The lobster, steamers, and Bar-B-Q fare provided for a delicious lunch and the sea breeze and company made it an ideal day at the beach.

Parents' Weekend

Parents' Weekend 1997 was the perfect weekend for a campus visit by parents, siblings, and pets. As usual, Commons tried extra hard to impress our parents with food while students tried to impress their parents with arts, athletics, and academics. In spite of Commons' efforts, however, most people took advantage of free meals out while their parents were in town. There was also the expected afternoon exodus to Freeport, but if you left campus you certainly missed out on some great events.

Friday night there were two packed performances by the Deansmen, Merimanders, and Crosstones. Saturday was a beautiful fall day to support Bates' athletes. Most students and parents spent the day out in the sun catching up on what happened during the first month of school. The fun continued Saturday night when the comedy group Capitil Steps entertained us with their hilarious ridiculing of American politics. The Strange Bedfellows kept everyone laughing Sunday afternoon with their improv comedy show. Throughout the weekend there were also dance and theater performances, giving students more opportunities to show off their talents and hard work. Parents' Weekend doesn't get any better than this.

Ice

STORM '98

On the first Wednesday night of the winter semester, Ice Storm '98 hit. The candle ban was lifted and, without power to do work by, many students enjoyed quiet nights with their friends in the dorms. Some people decided to get drunk with the expectation that classes would be canceled. Other dedicated Batesies took their work to Chase Hall where there was power and others were ambitious enough to study in their rooms with Petzl headlamps. But classes were not canceled after all. Professors made valiant attempts to teach classes without heat or power in the classrooms. It takes much more than ice to stop Bates College.

Bates was lucky; although parts of the campus were without electricity for over a week, Commons remained open and showers were available in Merrill Gymnasium. Although things weren't that bad at Bates, Maine was in a state of emergency. Inches of ice covered everything and the falling tree limbs kept the power out for weeks and roads closed until the cleanup could begin.

Many students volunteered to help out with the cleanup on campus and in the many shelters and emergency facilities in Lewiston-Auburn. The experience of the Ice Storm left students and faculty at Bates aware that showers aren't all that important, and that it takes a true sense of community to survive a disaster such as this one.

WRBC

Brings You "Trivia Night"

What is a tonic clonic seizure? What is the name of the only mammal whose milk doesn't curdle? If you know the answers to these questions then you would have been a prime contestant in this year's Trivia Night event. The event, sponsored by WRBC and broadcasted over the air, was a contest among various teams to answer a host of interesting and quirky questions. The questions came in a variety of forms and awarded teams a range of points, depending on difficulty. Teams were also given the opportunity to gain points by indentifying both the artist and title of the song playing during the answer period and completing a series of physical challenges. Trivia Night, held on the second Friday of January, lasted from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m. and was followed by a breakfast in Commons where the teams gathered, calmed their competitive spirits, ate together and were informed of the first, second and third place winners. Prizes distributed ranged from free CDs to free tattoos to discounted hair cuts to free meals at area restaurants.

Halloween

The party scene was different at Bates starting in 1997 with an infamous new alcohol policy, but that didn't stop many Batesies from having a great time on Halloween. As usual, the Chase Hall Committee organized an excellent Halloween party and the great dance music and giant video screens attracted many students in spite of the stricter alcohol rules. It was one of the first campus-wide parties that was well-attended and actually turned out to be a really good time.

Students got pretty creative and the costumes ranged from scary to funny to just plain wacky. Of course, some of the fall teams showed up in group costumes, like the women's alien soccer team and the field hockey ninjas. Other popular costume ideas were cheesy '70s and '80s clothes and cross-dressing. You can bet that Bates cleaned out the Salvation Army on Saturday morning. The group prize this year went to the girl scout troop and the best individual costume was Batman.

But no matter what you dressed up as for Halloween, you have to agree that the party was a success. Bates students know how to have a good time, so even without the kegs of Sam Adams it turned out to be a fun night for everyone.

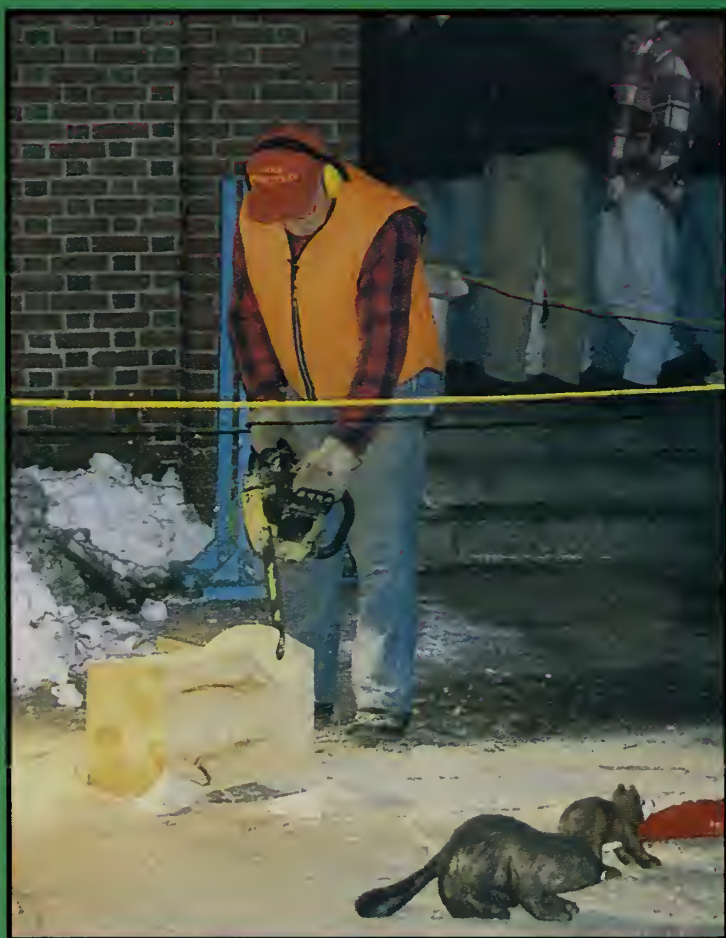

The Annual All-College Gala

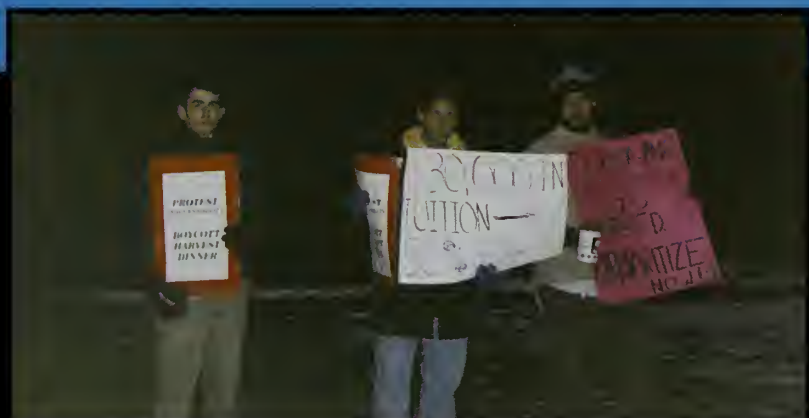

Harvest Dinner

Winter Carnival

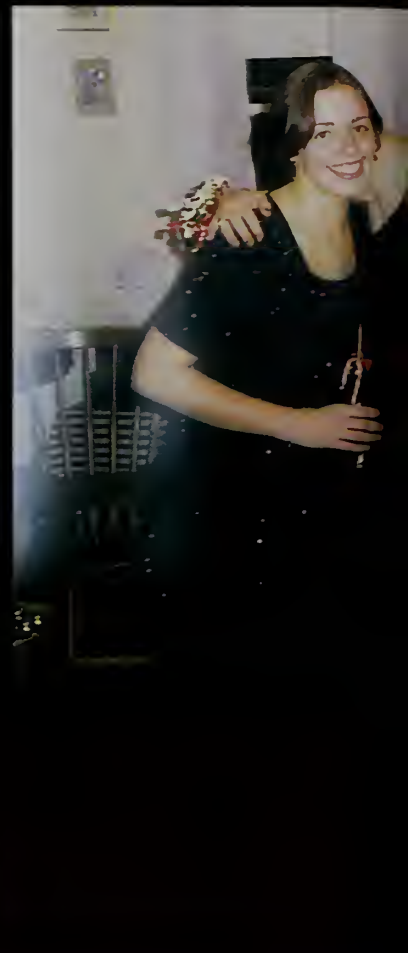

A great way to start off a new semester, Winter Carnival is near and dear to the hearts of Bates students. What better way to stop shivering after the 1998 Ice Storm than to choose Margaritaville for this year's theme? Starting on Wednesday with a dinner in commons, complete with a steel drum band and cheeseburgers in paradise, the carnival turned out successful once again. Thursday night there was a coffeehouse in the Silo and skating on the Puddle with the outing club. It was typical January evening, but you could count on the Bates Outing Club to build a big fire to make up for it. Friday was the great Bates holiday known as Newman Day-which can be counted on for endless entertainment in class and at commons. Later Friday night, for anyone still sober, Bates hosted a comedian and WRBC sponsored the forever interesting annual trivia night.

The highlight of Winter Carnival was the Margaritaville party in the Cage on Saturday night. A few dedicated students spent the day putting up tropical decorations so the whole campus could come to a great beach party. Giant pineapples, inflatable palm trees, pink flamingos, and plastic fish abounded. This year, instead of a semiformal, the attire for the party was tropical. Many brave (or drunk) Batesies came out in the snow with shorts and sandals. Hey, we're in Maine and immune to the cold, right? The dance floor was full all night thanks to music provided by a Reggae group and a cover band who swapped sets throughout the evening.

After a fun-filled week, Winter Carnival wound down with doughnuts and cartoons in the Silo on Sunday morning. For anyone who rolled out of bed after the previous night's party, it was an enjoyable way to end the week. Hey, we'll take the Carnival anytime, but we could do without the Maine winter.

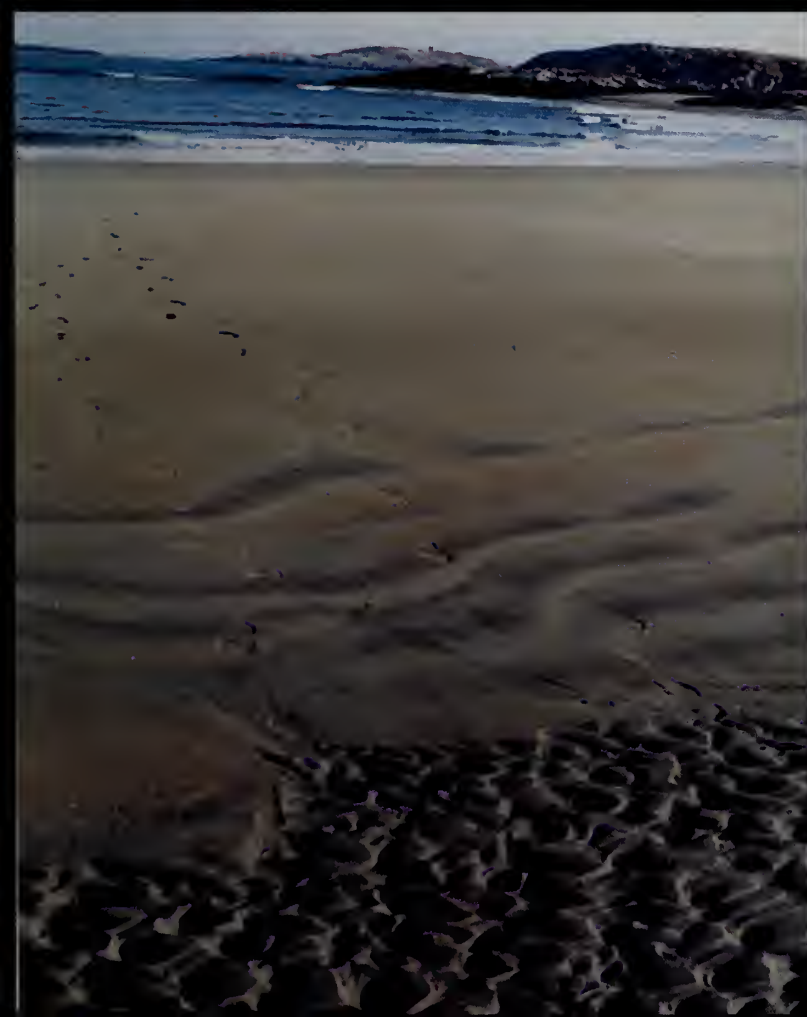

Parties and Formals

Short Term 1998

Short term was hot, cold, sunny, and rainy: in short El Nino had a field day during our final 5 weeks at Bates. On the sunny days there were frequent trips to Range Pond, Popham Beach, and Freeport. Batesies enjoyed laying out reading on the quad, and for most the relatively stress free environment was a nice change from second semester. For others, the poor souls left in the classroom and lab all day, the nights provided Springtime entertainment with WRBC playing on the quad, and the many BBQs including the annual Lobster Bake provided by Commons. All in all it was fun; a great way to wind down yet another year at Bates.

Senior Week

The Last Week for the Class of 1998

One last hurrah for the class of 1998; Senior Week. This year everything was perfect from the weather to the events. The Senior-Faculty Dinner, the Pub Crawl, bar hopping in the Old Port, the Champagne Semi-Formal, Midnight Madness, and Commencement all saw old friends coming together one last time to celebrate their four years at Bates. 208 weeks of life, with its ups and downs, and all arounds- we made it through, and the last week was nothing but fun, fun, fun.

Rob Curtis

Thesis title: Life In The Bubble

Medium: Etchings

A trial and error technique which finally yielded a print strong in tone and subject matter was the secret to my success when it came to my art. Heavily influenced by my four years at Bates College working and living within its community I desired to put together a series of etchings which would capture a sense of Bates life. I wanted to make the focus of the prints retain a humorous quality, therefore I used caricature to ensure the subject matter would be portrayed in this fashion. The work is based upon my memories from the past four years and uses site association to evoke a response from the viewer. The prints because of this are really geared towards people associated with Bates in some sort of fashion. One of the main themes is the fact that Bates life will soon fade away like all good things do in time and there is a quote attached to the work to make this more evident, it reads:

*"Bates life is like a bubble as light as air,
Floating first here, now there.
The bubble looks likely to float all day,
But Bates life sooner doth fade away."*

SCHAEFFER THEATER

THEATER
at Bates

The inspiration for creating a dance production which focuses on the natural movement, motivation, and passion of the human spirit has been with me for years. In October of 1995 I wrote a personal memoir about my passion for dance and the connection I felt between the natural world and the human body: in particular, the similar and symbolic life paths of trees and people. Since I was young, I have studied trees and their movements in the breeze just as I watch people move and interact. It has always mystified me that in the autumn, trees momentarily die, in the winter they bare their skeletons to the harshest of weather, and in the spring they joyously bloom with life again. Their persistence to survive through storms in the natural world seemed an admirable trait to adopt throughout my own life's turbulence. Because I have always depended on movement to express my emotions, I felt closer to the relatively silent path of nature: the trees move with the wind, die with the cold, and grow with the sun. Solely their appearance and demeanor mesmerize us because their lives seem infinite and their movements speak to us: their swaying in the wind creates music which is our life's accompaniment. More importantly, their existence secures our survival; their exhale is our breath. The sheer beauty of nature's dance evoked the ambition within me to create a world depicting the emotional storms and triumphs of the human spirit.

"I try to compose works that are involved with man's basic tragedy and the grandeur of his spirit. I want to dig beneath empty formalisms, displays of technical virtuosity, and the slick surface; to probe the human entity for the powerful, often crude beauty of the gesture that speaks of man's humanity." - Jose Limon

Clubs and Activities

Clubs & Activities

From the Ultimate Frisbee team to the Bates democrats, students find plenty of ways to keep busy on the Bates campus. Club endeavors range from the athletic, like the crew and hockey teams, to the activist, like the Women's Action Coalition and the GLBA, and also include many academic and religious organizations. Some of the most popular clubs include the Bates Ballroom Society (they even offer PE credit) and the Outing Club (got a beard or a dog?). Then there's the Chase Hall Committee - no one really knows who they are but their name is on all the concert tickets. There was a new addition to the Bates A Capella scene this year. Aside from the Deansmen, Merrimanders and Crosstones, we now have Cultured Voices. They sing a variety of songs from around the world. And we can always count on the Strange Bedfellows to keep things interesting - their favorite home this year is the Ronj, where they've even been known to show up drunk. The Film Board also provides an important service to Bates students - good movies cheap!

There are plenty of ways to get involved at Bates, so whether they're water skiing, debating, or taking over the radio waves, you can be sure that Bates students aren't bored during the long Maine winters.

The Mirror

As the Editor-in-Chief of the yearbook this year, and on behalf of the assistant editor Jessica Kremen-Kotlen, I would like say THANKS to all those people who helped in the publication of the 1998 Mirror. Without your assistance, this book would not have been possible. A special thank you goes out to the Bates College printing and mailing services for all of their help in mailing out the '97 books, to The RA for approving our budget yet again, to Adam Levin for his help in getting pictures schedules and rosters of the athletic teams, to Gene Clough for providing some GREAT photos and advising, and to Ken Murphy and Portrait Imaging Co. for their excellent job on the senior photos.

An extra special thank you goes out to Cole Harris, our Josten's representative who gave great advice and support at a moments notice. Without your help and encouragement, this book might still be on the computer. The staff at Josten's has been terrific with all the last minute details; thanks for your understanding and flexibility.

My own personal gratitude is extended to many of my classmates who donated their time or their photos to this cause. In particular I would like to thank: Hannah Lilja for her photo expertise and moral support through the summer months. Caitlin Sweeney for her fantastic photography skills, and for her sorting efforts in the senior section. Michelle Bastien for her help in the senior section and for her mailing abilities. Mike Ferrari for his efforts on the senior section. Tyler Munoz and Steve Simmons for donating half of the candids. Jay Lively for last minute photographs of graduation without which the book would never have been finished. Erin Gottwald and Heather Gill for various tasks throughout the year. Thanks a bunch guys - your efforts are more appreciated than you know!

I also want to say thanks to my mother, whom trekked up to Bates with me to get the computer and other materials that I needed in order to complete this thing, and to my family for putting up with my frustration and complaining throughout the summer months.

I ran into a few hang-ups trying to get photos for the spring sports and graduation, so I apologize if these sections are a little sparse. I hope everyone enjoys this book as a brief glimpse of our last year here at Bates. Best of luck to everyone-YA BATES!

In Loving Memory Benjamin Evans

Benjamin Evans, a member of the Bates Community, passed away in January of 1998. He is deeply missed by his family and friends.
